CHIROPRACTIC

What straightens the spine and removes the cause of disease and weakness like nothing else can do for you tell it has done for thousands of others.

What would you say CHIROPRACTIC means? It removes the cause of disease and disease itself. Look into it and investigate this wonderful science, then when thousands are suffering to health daily, take it up now! Experts who will gladly tell you what you have learned in PAINFUL and HAPLESSNESS from CHIROPRACTIC ADJUSTMENTS.

There is a real difference between treating a disease and adjusting and correcting the cause of the disease. Chiropractors do not use medicine or surgery. They simply adjust the bones of the spine that control all life. CHIROPRACTIC. This removes the pressure on the nerve, and the added supply of nerve force restores the affected organ to normal condition.

Come in and let me give you a spinal analysis and tell you what I think of your case.

I will gladly do this FREE OF CHARGE.

Proposal for National Golf Course Again Being Talked By Prominent Sport Leaders

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—A national permanent golf course over which the more important championship tournaments shall be played annually has frequently been proposed by both English and American sportsmen. The latest proposition has aroused much favorable and unfavorable comment, notably being, apparently, sharply divided in the feasibility of the plan. It has been pointed out that such a course would standardize championship play and make possible a comparison among the various courses of the world winners, semi-winners, and others, in different years thus furnishing a basis for accurate comparisons.

Opponents of the scheme take the stand that unless certain drastic restrictions and conditions were imposed a few favored players would greatly benefit owing to their residence near the course. It is also said that in no event could a permanent international golf course be built in time to give one course of field for the holding of a national championship although it is admitted that in baseball, tennis, track athletics and similar contests the competition surface is far more standardized than in golf.

In view of the possibility of entries from the United States, the leading American golfers will be interested in the latest report from K. E. England where the Dual Golf Club's course is situated, which was to the effect that it is doubtful if the famous links can be made playable in time for the 1920 British open championship next spring.

Soon after the outbreak of the war in 1914, the British military authorities converted part of the course into a training camp. When the war ended they were compensated by the government officials who quickly changed the fairways, green lawns and tees into a chaotic area of well-tramped common.

When the Dual Club regained possession of the property recently, part of the course was still in an appallingly bad state, the grass being only high places and the rest of about one-third of the links totally obliterated. The work of renovation was begun immediately and is daily being hurried to the limit of all the labor and other help available.

There now seems to be no doubt as to the playing of the 1920 amateur championship over the British course at Muirfield. Some changes may have to be made in the conditions for the tournament.

Further restriction of entries may be deemed advisable in order to avoid the crowding in of many players who have had the misfortune of winning. Some of the competing clubs are said to be in favor of adopting the American plan by introducing a $100 entry fee per round. This scheme was suggested a few years ago and it might be favorable reconsidered in time for a trial at Muirfield this year.

In an effort to attract additional professional golfers of national reputation to California, plans are to be laid at a conference here this month for a revival of the Northern California Golf Association and of the Southern California Golf Association.

These events added to the Southern California open championship at Arcadia, near here, March 6, 7 and 8, may lure many of the big fellows away from the resorts of the Pacific Coast and the Carolinas. California golfers are anxious to see what will be the result of the proposed events.

California for the first time this season bids for the wintering of professional talent from the east. It is thought that next year a more important variety of attractions will be offered.

Among those who will confer here are John S. McKenzie, president of the Northern California Golf Association, and E. H. Leetock Gregory, vice president of the California Golf Association, Mr. Ross French and Dr. Guy Coshman of Los Angeles, president of the state body.
